

HAZARD HUNTING

GET READY FOR... THE HUNT

WHAT IS HAZARD HUNTING?

Hazard Hunting is an important way to identify the safety risks, to put them up for discussion so as to prevent reoccurrence.

Therefore, several times a year, we will conduct different campaigns under the heading of 'Hazard Hunting', industry-wide. The idea is for everyone to look for potential hazards, together with his colleagues and to map these out. But more importantly we want everyone to offer suggestions and think along with us on how to prevent hazards. Offering suggestions is the very heart of each campaign. We need this input to take measures to ensure that safety remains at a high level.

FOCAL POINT – ROLLING OUT THE CAMPAIGN

Because you are Focal Point of HSElife NL, we ask you to roll out the campaign in your organization and to get everyone involved. We support you with campaign material and on-the-spot promotional material in order to do this in a structured and efficient way. For instance posters, banners, leaflet etc. The material is also intended to constantly bring the campaign under the footlight. You can also find the complete content and 'rules' of each campaign on hselifenl.com. Here, everyone can read all about the campaign.

THE FIRST CAMPAIGN

'Dropped Objects' is the first potential hazard that is spotlighted within Hazard Hunting. We give considerable attention to this subject with the campaign 'Sherlock Holmes in the search of Drops'. Dropped objects are a major safety risk in the workplace, both Offshore and Onshore and Office.

QUESTIONS?

You can find all information on hselifenl.com/hazardhunting. It would be nice if we all together deal with Dropped Objects in Q4. We, as HSElife NL, would like to receive the results so we can share/publish them with each other.

We wish you lots of success. Do you have any questions? We would like to hear them.
Call us or send us an email.
